CIVIL ACTION NO. SA-20-CA-1168-FB

ORDER EXTENDING TEMPORARY RESTRAINING ORDER

Before the Court is the status of the above styled and numbered cause. Plaintiff filed a motion for temporary restraining order and preliminary injunction on October 1, 2020. (Docket no. 4). On October 2, 2020, this Court entered a Temporary Restraining Order against defendants, enjoining defendants in their individual and official capacities from taking any action to remove plaintiff from office. (Docket no. 8). This Court also referred this matter to United States Magistrate Judge Elizabeth S. Chestney for pretrial proceedings, including any requests for injunctive relief. (Docket no. 10). Magistrate Judge Chestney has set a hearing on October 27, 2020, to consider whether a preliminary injunction is warranted. (Docket no. 11).

Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 65(b), a temporary restraining order “expires at the time after entry—not to exceed 14 days—that the court sets, unless before that time the court, for good cause, extends it for a like period or the adverse party consents to a longer extension.” FED. R. CIV. P. 65(b)(2). The Temporary Restraining Order will expire on October 16, 2020, before the preliminary injunction hearing is scheduled to be held. For the reasons set forth in the Temporary Restraining Order, the Court finds that defendants should still be restrained from removing plaintiff from office. The Court also finds that these circumstances present good cause for an extension of the Temporary Restraining Order.

The Court finds that these circumstances present good cause for an extension of its Temporary Restraining Order. (Docket no. 8). Accordingly, IT IS ORDERED that defendants are hereby RESTRAINED in their individual and official capacities from taking any action to remove plaintiff from office for a further period of fourteen days after the expiration of the prior Temporary Restraining Order.

It is so ORDERED.

SIGNED this 15th day of October, 2020.
